

Choices

What's black and white and gray all over?
The world of decisions rests on our shoulder.

We think our choice is right for us,
but what God thinks will add a plus.

Decisions affect everyone around,
they pick us up or knock us down.

Choose to lose, or choose to win.

Your head is in a wild spin.

Friends that make a bad impression,
or Christian friends that teach a lesson.

Just another choice to make.

Be yourself, or be a fake.

Should you jump right in the pool?

Make a choice to make you cool.

Or should you take that road alone,
leading to a better home?

God calls out, a silent scream.

In your head you plot a scheme.

Choose to win or choose to lose.

Hard or easy life is your cruise.

By: Natalie A. Thornhill

Dedicated to Nathan Thornhill.