

Me and You

A sea of green, a sky of blue.
A heaven has been made for me and you.
The grass so right, the trees just grand.
For me and you was made this land.
A home to live in, a person to love.
This place for me and you just because.
Some lessons to learn, a point to be made.
A plan for me and you was laid.
A gray sky creeps in, a cloud covers all.
A heaven has been made, from heaven we may fall.
Dead things lay about, grave minds soon are full.
For me and for you this land became dull.
A burnt down home, a lonely spot.
This place for me and you we forgot.
Uneducated, we left the door shut.
A plan given in to an evil plot.
When the day ends whose name do we call?
Our father in heaven, he gives it his all.

By: Natalie A. Thornhill

Dedicated to Brian Wiggs.