

180°

One hundred eighty degrees later,
I finally know where I stand.
I have accomplished the u-turn that was needed so badly.
I have checked all the signs and know where I am.
One hundred eighty degrees later,
I no longer speak humbly to sin proud.
I have turned my life in the direction that is right.
I have changed all the bad to be good.
One hundred eighty degrees later,
I am aware of what I did wrong.
Turning this far is the best choice I have made.
For now God has my eyes set on him.

By: Natalie A. Thornhill

Dedicated to Pastor Kent Butcher, you bring God steadily to our lives.